FLIGHT OFFICER DIES IN ACCIDENT

MANY CONTESTS CREATE INTEREST FOR HEAVY VOTE CAST TUESDAY

PLANE CRASH AT ORLAND KILLS COMBAT PILOT SUNDAY P. M.

Lands In Clarence Beagley's Field. Owners Give First Aid and Assistance To State Police and Army Officials

James Martin Jr., flight operations officer for the Illinois National Guard at the Municipal Airport, 63rd and Cicero, a 32 year old pilot who flew scores of combat missions in France and England, was killed when his National Guard plane, a PF51, crashed at the edge of the Clarence Beagley farm, located at 161st street and 94th ave., Orland Park. He lived with his parents at 7757 S. Paulina St., Chicago.

At about 4:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon Mr. Beagley was walking in his yard when he heard the roar of an airplane. Looking up he saw a large plane about 1500 feet altitude going into a roll and then into a spin. It hit the ground a short distance from him. The force of the impact demolished the plane, breaking it up into small pieces excepting the motor which was buried about six feet in the ground. The plane weighed about three tons.

Mr. Beagley notified the police and then he and his wife rushed to the wreckage with fire extinguishers, blankets and first aid. The pilot was dead and fortunately the plane did not burn.

The State Police got army clearance at 7:30 p.m. to remove the body which was taken across the cornfield with tractor and trailer to the waiting ambulance. The state police kept guard all night working in shifts, the Beagley's lightening their task with refreshments.

At eight o'clock Monday morning the army arrived with trucks and winches. The field was too muddy for them to go through so Emil Keuch and Henry Bormet came with their tractors, and with the aid of Mr. Beagley with his tractor and two farm trailers, they hauled the thousands of pieces of what was the day before a proud Mustang plane, to the army trucks waiting at the highway. The job was finished about three o'clock in the afternoon.

Capt. Robert Donohue, operation officer of the 108th Bomb Squadron, took charge of the case upon his arrival at the scene Sunday evening. He and Mr. Martin were buddies and had just finished a test flight of the plane before he turned it over to Mr. Martin, twenty minutes before the crash.

The inquest was held at Hickey's funeral parlor, Oak Forest, Monday morning at nine o'clock, with Mr. Martin's father, his brother, and Mr. Beagley attending.

Surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Martin Sr., two sisters, Mrs. Julia Hartman and Mrs. Margaret Rogers; and two brothers, Robert J. and Joseph D. Martin.

A military funeral is being held today at 9 a.m. from the funeral home, 1716 W. 63rd St., to St. Theodore's church, interment St. Mary's.

MAN BURNED WHILE SLEEPING

The New Lenox fire department was called out Sunday afternoon at three o'clock to the home of Marcel Rathje at the southwest corner of New Lenox township.

Mr. Rathje, 40, was awakened when his bed was burning. In his attempt to remove the burning mattress and bed clothing from the room, he received burns about his face, feet and hands. He crossed the room to close an open window. Assisting him was William Wireman.

The East Joliet fire department also responded to the call and together the firemen saved the house, but the room was badly scorched and the bed clothing and mattress damaged. It is thought the fire started from a burning cigarette. Damage is estimated at about $200.

Mr. Rathje was taken to St. Joseph's hospital by neighbors for treatment and later released. His wife and their three children, who were asleep, escaped injuries.

The New Lenox fire department answered two calls Monday afternoon to extinguish grass fires. No damage was done.

New Lenox 4-H Club Attend Rally; Give Unusual Program

Because of the kindness of several New Lenox 4-H club members' parents, most of the club's 45 members were able to attend the annual 4-H rally held in the Farragut school in Joliet last Saturday night, April 2.

This year's program was different and unusual inasmuch as it was exclusively 4-H talent. The sextet from New Lenox, comprising Joan Kern, Phyllis Palmer, Ann Archibald, Mae Ann Oster, Florence Cruise and Martha Kern, sang several selections and their "Teen Time Twosome", Florence Cruise and Martha Kern gave their recent PTA show routine.

Recreation followed and everyone agreed they liked this type of rally better.

The last 4H Leisure Hour meeting will be held in the New Lenox public school at eight o'clock April 19. This is the last meeting of the winter club and members will be divided into their original Bluebird and Cardinal summer clubs. All outstanding membership cards must be in at this meeting.

Mrs. Lester Koerner will resume leadership to assist Mrs. Hamilton and Violet Lockhart and Mrs. Julia Goshaw have consented to help for the summer sessions.

Frankfort Man Found Dead in His Garage

Mr. Joseph Frei, 57, who made his home with his brother-in-law, Garland Knipple at Frankfort, was found dead in the garage at his home Wednesday, March 30.

Because he has been despondent since his wife's death in 1938, it is believed this to be the reason he shot himself through the heart with a .39 caliber Luger automatic pistol. He was found by Garland Knipple and William Knipple County deputy sheriff at Frankfort, by directions given in notes which he wrote.

Garland Knipple summoned his uncle after finding the following note when he returned home from work:

"Dear Garland, Do not go into the garage. Please phone Uncle Will. So long, Joe."

When William Knipple arrived he found another note which read: "Dear Uncle Will—As an officer of the law, kindly accept the following statement: I committed the act of self-destruction. One—put the gun on safety as per drawing. Dressed as I am, I wish to be cremated. Take charge of the gun. I am in the garage. A personal and private letter you will find in the rear room. Joseph."

The time given on the note was 2:25 p.m. In the personal note Mr. Frei asked that Ernest Wunderlich at the Western funeral home in Joliet be the undertaker.

According to Coroner Blood, no reason for the act was given in either note and none was known by relatives. Mr. Frei was a retired guard at Stateville.

The only survivors are a brother August in Chicago and two brothers in Germany.

Funeral services were held last Friday in the Western Funeral home in Joliet with the Rev. Eric Bizer of Frankfort St. Peter's Evangelical church officiating, which was followed by cremation in Chicago.

ANNUAL H. B. PLAY ROUSING SUCCESS

The Will county Home Bureau conducted their annual Play Day Tuesday, March 29 in the First Baptist church in Joliet which was attended by 130 women. All came dressed in house dresses or play clothes.

The purpose of the affair was to pay honor to the units which have made their yearly membership quotas.

The Joliet unit, under the leadership of Mrs. John Nible, differentiated between the winning and losing units in the membership drive, by crowning the winners with hair bows and chastising the losers with ankle bands. Name tags in the shape of an apron attired lady, were made by the Homer-Lockport unit.

Musical games, impromptu stunts and equipment games kept the group hustling. A highlight of the day's program was the Busy Homemakers "Ladies be Seated" radio quiz. Mrs. Ray Walsh, as the announcer, Mrs. Esther Nieland as the master of ceremonies and Mrs. Joe Scott providing the musical background, kept the group in a state of excitement. Prizes in the radio quiz were handmade and donated by the Busy Homemakers unit.

A potluck luncheon was served at noon with the vice chairmen of the losing units doing K. P. duty. Mrs. Norman Krapf led the community singing. A surprise feature of the day's program was a style show of all homemade house dresses.

H. Howell Injured in Auto Accident Sat.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Howell of Frankfort, who spent last week end in Niles, Mich., with relatives and were attending a railroad meeting, figured in an auto accident.

As Mr. Howell was returning to his relative's home following the meeting Saturday evening, he collided with a car which was coming toward him in his lane. In the oncoming car were five colored men, who it is alleged, were intoxicated. Both cars were badly wrecked and Mr. Howell received painful cuts and bruises on his chin, chest and knees. He was able to return home Sunday with his wife and daughter and is around a little, but unable to work.

Father & Son Banquet Draws Large Crowd

A delicious banquet dinner was served to 165 fathers and sons in St. John's church in Mokena last Friday evening. Circle three of the Women's Guild under the cochairmanship of Mrs. Roy Kropp and Mrs. Owen Maue, served the meal at 14 artistically decorated tables.

The speaker of the evening was Rev. Lennart Cederleaf, Chaplain at the State School for Boys at St. Charles. He gave a highly informative talk on what influences boys for good or bad. Comic movies shown proved fun for young and old. A colored film depicting the parks and playgrounds in Illinois took everybody to the state's best beauty spots and historical places. The Brotherhood of the church sponsored the dinner.

Mokena Scouts To Earn Camp Expenses

Scouts of Mokena are available for the cleaning of yards, basements etc. The boys are to be given opportunity to earn their summer camp expenses. It is agreed among the scouts that 40c an hour is a fair remuneration for such work when well performed.

Call any Scout in your neighborhood or any of the following patrol leaders if you want to dispose of paper or need the help of a boy for a few hours: Russell Geuther, Philip Howell, Richard Gillette, Bruce Shoop Billy Weber.

North, South Fought Hard Over President Buchanan

By BAUKHAGE

News Analyst and Commentator.

WASHINGTON.—Democratic harmony, so far as the Dixiecrat revolt is concerned, remains an uncertain quantity. Democrats, basically, are still Democrats, but there will always be certain fundamental differences between North and South which existed even before slavery and secession became issues.

Beyond that, however, recent clashes with the Dixiecrats are largely only a levelling off process and probably nothing a sensible compromise cannot cure.

People outside of Washington are often surprised that differences still arise between North and South over ancient matters which most of the country has forgotten.

The country has also forgotten that it was here that the earliest outbreaks of sectional feeling took place. As early as 1848, there was a riot following an "underground" slave-running incident in which 76 household servants were spirited off to freedom. The Abolitionist Weekly, was stormed and the capital suffered the biggest attack of jitters it had had since the British burned the White House 34 years before.

Nine years later, a band of armed ruffians from Baltimore entered the city bent on helping the "Know Nothing" candidates in the local election. (We had local elections then.) The marines had to be called out: six men were killed and twice as many wounded.

The tide continued to rise and no President, from Tyler to Buchanan, could or would do anything about it. It was an open secret that Buchanan's sympathies were largely south of the Mason-Dixon line. Historians agree that he learned in advance the decision in the famous Dred Scott slavery case which was one of the last of the explosions which started the Civil War. Today supreme court secrets are kept secret. But Buchanan knew the court had ruled that Dred Scott was not a citizen under the meaning of the Constitution, and could not be made a citizen; further that the Constitution affirmed a property right in slaves, and such slave property was protected by the "due process of law" clause.

Buchanan realized what the effect of this decision would be, but in his inauguration speech plausibly advised the country to accept the verdict, no matter what it was.

Later when southern sentiment grew in the capital, Buchanan did try to organize a militia, but congress would have none of it. The regular army troops in the city were known to be of doubtful loyalty. The militia, much larger on paper, could muster only 150 men. Meanwhile the southern group, the Militant Jackson Democratic association, was drilling 800 men.

Finally the militia managed to get a thousand men under arms. But feeling ran high, and on Washington's birthday following the election of Abraham Lincoln by the electoral college but before his inauguration, the militia paraded. Ex-President Tyler, a Virginian, went to Buchanan and protested the fact that they had been allowed to display the Stars and Stripes, and Buchanan is said to have apologized.

Most people have forgotten the northern animosity toward Buchanan, but it was to crop up again in my time when it was the subject of one of those asiduous debates for which Sen. Cabot Lodge was notorious. Many Presidents are memorialized in stone in Washington, but not all, and in Lodge's time, Buchanan was one who was not.

Buchanan had been a bachelor and had taken his niece with him to the White House as hostess to assist in the brilliant entertainments for which he was noted. She later became Mrs. Harriett Lane Johnston, lived to an affluent old age and when she died, left the sum of $50,000 (which bought a lot more marble and bronze than than it would now) for the erection of a statue of her uncle.

The donation of a site required the approval of congress. This donation was cheap, considering that, unlike similar tributes to the nation's hero, all expenses were provided, Congress was willing enough, but not that stalwart yankee, Lodge, who lived perhaps nearer to the age of Buchanan to his own generation.

He chose to dig up all the unsavory memories, his scholarly brain could muster to block the donation of the site. Naturally hot southern blood grew hotter, and what some of Mr. Lodge's opponents lacked in data, they more than made up in oratory. The motion was passed, but not until tempers had been thoroughly ruffled.

The site chosen for the statue was not conspicuous. In fact, I had never seen it until it was brought to my attention by a gentleman fully conversant with the details of the dispute and likewise familiar with every nook and cranny of the capital city. I asked him to show me the statue. He said he knew where it was. In Meridian Park. But just before we arrived at the scene, he paused and said: "It ought to be here."

It developed that he had never seen it either.

It was there—in an inconspicuous spot, a huge bronze statue, of good workmanship, backed by a wide exedra which is defined as "a seat with a high back"—but this would seat several squads of infantry.

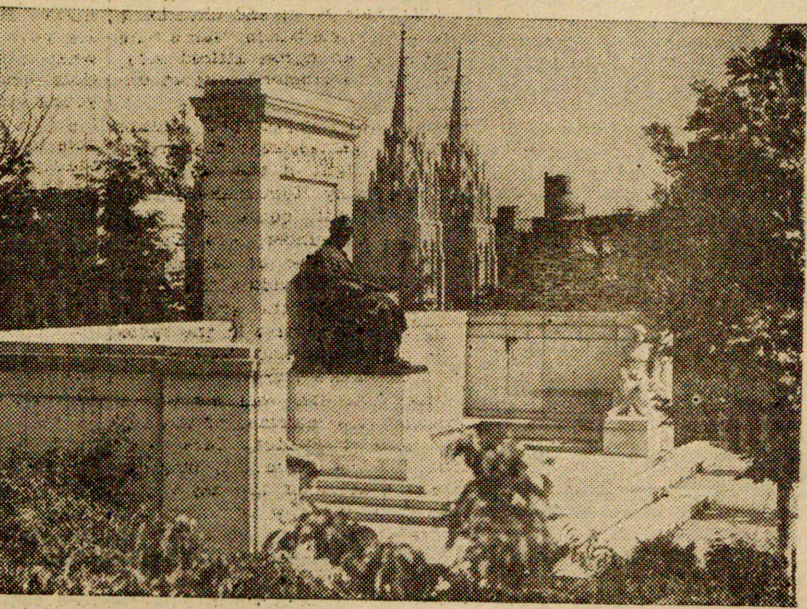

It is a huge piece of stonework flanked by two symbolic figures in classic style, one representing diplomacy, in which Buchanan was skilled (he had served well as minister to Great Britain) and one representing the law in which, if we may judge by his breach of ethics in connection with the supreme court decision, he was not of equal stature. Perhaps his niece was sensitive on this point for she specified the inscription—the only words on the statue beside the dates of his term and the single word "Buchanan"—It reads:—

"The incomparable statesman whose walk was upon the mountain ranges of the law." (Although it isn't indicated, it was Buchanan's own attorney-general who said that.

There is a certain ironic touch in the fact that Buchanan's memory had to be perpetuated in stone by family subsidy, for from 1820 to 1830 he was one of the few members of congress who pursued the futile attempt to get congress to approve a suitable memorial in the capitol to George Washington.

Efforts in this direction either were circumvented or ignored until 1831, the centenary of Washington's birth. At that time, the public was so aroused over the indifference of congress that George Watterson, then librarian of congress, formed an association which raised the money for the Washington monument which was eventually completed on the spot originally chosen for a statue of Washington by Major L'Enfant who drew the plans for the city.

The President said recently he didn't depend on opinion polls under any circumstances. Well, if anybody has a reason for that attitude, it certainly would be Harry Truman.

Handling and Shipping Ore Is Large-Scale Operation

Iron ore is the life blood of the steel industry. Transportation facilities are the arteries through which it flows.

From the mines and pits of the Lake Superior district 82 million gross tons of ore were shipped to blast furnace plants during the 1948 shipping season. Because the upper lake ports are frozen about four months of the year huge stockpiles must be kept at lower lake ports and the furnaces.

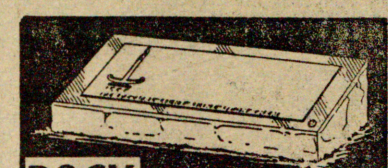

Handling and shipping ore is one of the most complex of all the large scale operations, for the ore from many mines must be gathered and blended into grades which will give best results in smelting.

At open pit mines, such as those on the Mesabi range in Minnesota, the ore is dug with power shovels, and loaded on trucks to be discharged into ore cars for the trip to Duluth, Superior or Two Harbors. There the ore is stored in huge bins to be loaded into ore carriers. Ships of special design carry it to lower lake ports, such as Cleveland, Chicago, Buffalo, Detroit or Ashtabula.

Ben Franklin and Business

Business life began for Franklin at the early age of ten years, when he was taken from school, and put to work in his father's shop. At the age of 17, he scored his first business success by profitably managing his brother's "New England Courant." Having learned the technique of a good craftsman from his London-taught brother, Franklin ran away before his apprentice term was served and worked for Keimer's printing house in Philadelphia. From there he went to London where he worked a year in Palmer's, a famous printing establishment, and later went to work for Watts, a still more important printing house.

American farmers, on the average, sell 9 percent of their wheat in June, 23 percent in July, 15 percent in August, and 10 percent in September—a total of 57 percent in four months time. Throughout the remaining eight months, approximately 5 percent is sold each month, accounting for the remaining 43 percent of the total crop. This almost universal habit has persisted in spite of the changing conditions in the past century.

The Ever-Lengthening Shadow

Because of the clarity and forcefulness with which it presents the alarming growth of Federal expenditures, we are reprinting an article from the Reader's Digest of March, 1949, with their permission. The article originally appeared in the New England Letter, published by the First National Bank of Boston.

In 1929, federal spending amounted to less than two thirds of the personal income of the inhabitants of California. By 1947, federal expenditures were approximately equal to the total personal income of all the inhabitants of California, Washington, Oregon, Nevada, Idaho, Utah, Arizona, Montana Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico, North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, and about four fifths of Texas.

Federal expenditures amounted to $121 per family in 1929, $250 in 1938, and about $984 in 1948.

Remember that these figures represent the spending of the federal government only. When state and local government spending is added, the total amounts to some 30 percent of our national income. In other words, the American people devote nearly one third of their working time and effort to supporting their various governments.

If the protein content of feed corn in Illinois declined only 1/2 percent, it would cost the feeders $8,710,000 annually to replace it with soybean protein at 10 cents a pound.

State to Convert U. S. Hospital Into Aged Persons' Home

Governor Adlai E. Stevenson has announced state plans for the purchase or lease of the former U. S. Army Mayo General hospital at Galesburg for use as a home for aged and infirm persons. The University of Illinois, which has been using the plant as an undergraduate branch for the past three years, has agreed to move out at the end of the current school year, the Governor said.

The state welfare department will operate the proposed new institution and set up a research center for the study of chronic diseases of the aged as part of its facilities. The place would have a capacity of 2,100 persons.

Fred K. Hoehler, director of welfare expects the research center to attract some of the best medical men in the Midwest. He declared that the new institution will relieve present overcrowding in various state mental hospitals.

The Galesburg plant comprises 156 acres with 117 permanent buildings connected by one and one-half miles of closed corridors. Some seven thousand students, more than half of them World War II veterans, enrolled during the three years the University of Illinois has been conducting the school there. Now the enrollment is down to 825.

Two thousand years is the time required to spend a billion dollars, says the World Book Encyclopedia—if you spend it at the rate of one dollar a minute.

A Fifth of America's Doctors are Trained in Northern Illinois

CHICAGO and Northern Illinois is a world center for medical education. More doctors are trained in the area than in any other comparable community. At a conservative estimate, one doctor out of every five in the nation received part or all of his education here.

This area is a magnet for medical students because five great medical schools, with superb hospital and research facilities, are located here. The schools include the College of Medicine of the University of Illinois (the largest medical school in the United States, and probably in the world), Northwestern University Medical School (third largest in the nation), the University of Chicago School of Medicine, Stritch School of Medicine of Loyola University, and Chicago Medical College.

The medical schools are supplemented, in their teaching task, by post-graduate seminars, clinical conferences, and special courses; by the area's 95 hospitals; and by outstanding medical library facilities ties that include some 500,000 volumes. Along with the medical schools themselves, the area contains many educational institutions in allied fields. There are, for example, three famous schools of dentistry (the only city with that many), 44 schools of nursing, a major college of pharmacy, 21 schools for x-ray technicians, and others for medical librarians, medical technologists, physical therapists, occupational therapists and dental hygienists.

Schools alone, however, do not make a great center of medical education. More important are the experienced physicians and surgeons of this area who are constantly learning and, at the same time, are passing on their knowledge to new generations of medical men.

Medical training is only one of the many segments of education in which Chicago and Northern Illinois is outstanding. That the city and surrounding communities form a great educational and medical center, as well as the center of an industrial empire, is important to industrialists everywhere.

American farmers marketed about 31 billion dollars of products last year, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture. This was 3 percent above the previous year and probably established an all-time record, inasmuch as production expenses were also greater, net income was down slightly from the previous year.

SCRIPTURE: Mark 10.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Mark 9:33.

Range of Religion

Lesson for April 10, 1949

ONCE THERE WAS a farmer who owned a large farm. Its wide acreage was divided into pastures and fields and a garden and orchards and hog-lots and chicken-yards and so on. But whenever any one would ask the farmer about some particular part of the farm, he would answer, "That's not my business—that's only the orchard, it isn't the farm," or "That's not the farm, that's a flock of sheep," or a rye field or whatever it might be. Of course such a farmer never lived, or if he did, he should have his head examined.

What Does Religion Cover?

YET THAT FARMER is not a bit more idiotic than a Christian who, when asked about this or that activity or aspect of life, answers, "That's not religion. I have no interest in it." Religion isn't a little fenced-off pasture for lambs, a tiny garden plot behind thick hedges.

Religion covers the whole farm, every bit of life from end to end. Jesus knew this very well. He never once refused to discuss anything on the ground that it was not religious.

He cast light on everything that touched him. He called his followers the "light of the world." Not flashlights, shining in one narrow beam! Not flashlights, but lamps, set on a lampstand and "giving light to all who are in the house."

The Light Of God

A GOOD cross-section of Jesus' methods and ideas can be seen in Mark 10, into which one chapter Mark packs his whole account of a number of weeks which Jesus spent in the region called Perea. Observe the variety of situations which confronted Jesus. First there was a question about divorce. When they brought that question up to Jesus, he did not dodge it. He did not call it a personal matter in which he, as a teacher of religion, had no interest. He did not say it was strictly a matter for the civil courts. You may read what he did say in Mark 10. You will not find that first of all he brings God into his answer.

Religion And Little Children

THIS CHAPTER includes the famous story of the little children who were brought to Jesus—evidently quite small children, for Jesus lifted them into his arms. We do not here Jesus saying, "Children are too small for me to take any interest in them. Wait till they are older. What good can religion do these tiny tots?" On the contrary, Jesus not only blessed them, but held them up as models for older people.

Is your church following Jesus here? Is your church interested in the little children as much as it is in the "paying" members?

Or are the little ones shoved off into some damp corner of the church basement? In your state or province, do the Christian people take an interest in the children? Do children in your section get as good attention as pure-bred cattle do?

As Wide As Life

THEN THERE WAS a question about eternal life. Of course Jesus answered that one, it was obviously a religious question. (Except that he gave it what some people even today would consider a not very religious answer!) Jesus went on to talk about money and the effect it has on a man's prospect of eternal life. Jesus would be the very last person to imagine that a man's bank account has nothing to do with religion. Some people to this day don't like to hear a preacher mention money in his sermons. Well, such people might have been offended by Jesus, for he often preached about money and property.

Then there was the question of ambition, the audacious request that James and John made of him. He had some strong remarks to make about that.

And finally at Jericho, not long before Palm Sunday, there was the blind beggar Bartimaeus. Jesus did not say to him, "Health is no affair of mine. I cure souls, not bodies."

HOW TO SHOOT A RIFLE

By ARTHUR E. COOK
National and Olympic Rifle Champion

Where To Shoot

Finding a safe place to shoot is most important. A safe shooter is a skillful shooter — he knows where every bullet is going and he has a backstop behind his target to stop the bullet. This applies both to hunting and target shooting. And no matter what kind of shooting you intend to do, get your practice on the target range. It is the only good way to learn the basics.

For beginners I recommend firing at 50 feet, the standard indoor distance. Later you can increase to 50 and 100 yards, the standard outdoor distances. The illustration at left above shows a safe bullet stop for a 50-foot range in your basement or shed. Fill a large packing box or crib with sand and place it in front of a solid brick or masonry wall. Board-up all windows with steel or one-inch hardwood. Reinforce the front of the box and arrange lights as shown. Sand about eighteen inches from front to back will stop .22 caliber bullets, but remember to repack it regularly.

Outdoors select a steep hill or bank which is free from rocks and hang your target in front of it. Build a simple frame to hold your target; don't tack it to a tree or the bullets will ricochet dangerously.

Best of all join or form a rifle club in your community or school and build a real range. You will quickly become safe and skillful.

The February output came from 25 strip mines which employed 3,513 men turned out 1,355,857 tons, and from 69 shaft mines employing 21,123 men and hoisting 3,679,261 tons.

Reflecting the importance of Chicago as the center of grain marketing for the nation, government records show that 85 percent of the grain futures trading in 1948 was conducted through the Chicago Board of Trade, most of which, however originated outside of Chicago.

"Do you believe I'm Santa Claus? I'd like to deliver this house to you at low cost, but—

About $2500. of this $10,000. house is tax costs. Since 1939 about $1,250. in taxes have been added to the cost of this house."

Senator Byrd of Virginia suggests some places to cut government costs that will save you some money.

Salaries for Federal employees—now 7 billion dollars; grants in aid 2½ billion dollars; in public works underway or proposed—30 billion dollars; yearly interest on trust fund reserves—1 billion dollars.

Meaningless, isn't it, except that it's your money that's being spent, and it's your living costs that are going up.

Oh yes, if all low-income families are housed in public units under present social planner recommendations, it will cost an additional 150-200 billion dollars.

Do you still believe in Santa Claus?

BUY OUR CHICKS

They live, grow, lay and pay!

We hatch all popular breeds.
The first 12 hours in a chick's life is very important. They should have rest. They should not be jiggled around on a train, getting cold or overheated.

We hatch our own chicks, giving them the proper rest and care. When you get them from us, they are rested and ready to be fed. Our breeders are fed a regular breeding mash which assures you of a strong, healthy chick.

We also have a good supply of oil and electric brooders in various sizes; fountains and feeders. We manufacture a high grade feed for poultry and live stock and sell it to you wholesale. Give us a trial and buy the BEST for LESS.

The potato, a wholesome food in itself, is a close relative of poisonous plants such as henbane, deadly nightshade, and Jimson weed, says the World Book Encyclopedia.

On an average Illinois farm of 185 crop acres, 28 more acres of legumes and grasses and 27 fewer acres of corn and soybeans should be grown. This adjustment in land use is needed to prevent irreparable erosion and damage and to maintain soil fertility.

During the pasture season, beef cattle can obtain up to 95 percent of their total feed requirements from pasture.

The Illinois system of soil fertility grew out of soil investigations made by the University of Illinois agricultural experiment station nearly 50 years ago.
